

A SUSTAINABLE FUTURE STARTS AT SCHOOL

Join our community of Oregon parents and teachers who help make K-8 schools healthier and greener, and more resilient — one project at a time.

Address your school's needs through a passion project!

Set up an outdoor classroom kit

Gather a student green team

Start a gardening or habitat project

Promote walking and biking

Reduce cafeteria waste

We'll help you make a difference.

Are you a parent, teacher, or school staff in Oregon who wants to help your K-8 school thrive but don't know how to use your limited time? The Eco-School Network is here to help you achieve your sustainability vision.

- Take our free training this October and November, with four live evening sessions. We offer Monday hybrid sessions in the Portland Metro area (some in person), and Tuesday online-only sessions for those elsewhere or who can't come in person. We'll help you choose the right project, engage others, and keep it going.
- Join our network of changemakers from other schools and districts to be inspired and see what's possible. You'll get no-pressure invitations to quarterly gatherings and retreats for on-going learning, connection, and a whole lot of fun.
- Choose your own adventure. Your level of involvement is up to you: take on a simple project and be done, or start an ambitious initiative. Either way, you'll have supported your school in a meaningful way and nurtured young stewards.

Spread hope through action.
